

Answer the Following Questions

1. You must ensure an assessment has been made of any electrical hazards. What must this assessment cover?
2. So far as is reasonably practicable, you must make sure that electrical equipment and installations are maintained to prevent danger. What does this involve?
3. What is the importance of being Gas Safe registered?
4. It's important that employers make sure their gas appliances are maintained in a safe condition by a competent person and in line with manufacturers' instructions and appropriate standards. Explain why this is the case.